One local lass is wondering when the city will get around to cleaning out the sewers of the East Side of town. She reports that during Thursday's high wind, she was walking along Spruce Street near Chestnut when the wind whipped off her hat and neatly placed it into the sewer nearby.

Today the woods and fields drew a lot of hunters. Almost simultaneously, Pa. News saw one walking south in his hunting outfit carrying his gun and another running to catch the bus to the end of Highway line.

Apparently the weatherman changed his mind Friday afternoon. After the indications all day had been for continuation of the rains of the earlier part of the day, the rain ceased, and conditions in the evening presented good football weather.

U. S. Intelligence Chief Says Japanese-Trained Agitators Stir Up Violence

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
U. S. Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, Nov. 10.—General Douglas MacArthur's counterintelligence chief charged today that Japanese-trained Asiatic agitators are fomenting violence throughout the Orient.

The intelligence officer, Brig. Gen. Elliot R. Thorpe, said these Asiatic agitators are "intellectual landmines" planted by the Japs in the wake of their retreating armies.

Japanese-trained professional agitators, Thorpe said, are actively abetting President Soekarno of the unrecognized Indonesian republic in strike-torn Java.

Asserts 'Understanding' Existed Prior To War That U.S. Was To Enter

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(INS)—A member of the Pearl Harbor investigating committee said today he had learned there was an "understanding" in 1941 between the United States, Britain and the Netherlands that this country would be "in the war" if the Japs crossed a certain line in the Pacific.

The committee member declined to permit use of his name. He said his information was gleaned from previous testimony of Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, and has been confirmed by "other sources."

Would Be In War
He added that the understanding was between President Roosevelt, the British and the Dutch. "It was to the effect that 'if the Japs attacked them or moved across a certain line in the Pacific, we would be in the war,' he asserted.

Defense Counsel Takes Advantage Of Recess To Frame New Move

PROSECUTION WILL CALL BATAAN MEN

By PAT ROBINSON
U. S. Staff Correspondent

MANILA, Nov. 10.—Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's defense counsel took advantage of a recess in the trial today to map the strategy designed to save the former Japanese commander of the Philippines from hanging if convicted as a war criminal.

Col. Harry Clarke and his staff were preparing a list of labels, contending that the tribunal hearing the evidence against Yamashita has no authority to act under the American constitution.

To Present Writ
The defense writ, to be presented early next week, further contends that Capitol cases can be tried without a jury only by a regular court martial in enemy-occupied territory during a military campaign.

The defense also is planning to bring from Japan high-ranking government and army officials to testify for Yamashita.

They will attempt to prove that orders were issued to the general to protect and feed the civilian population (Continued on Page Two)

FOOD PROBLEM IS TROUBLING JAPAN

WILLIAM H. BUNIN
U. S. Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, Nov. 10.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur today disclosed a new meeting with Japan's Premier Baron Ki juro Shidehara on what was termed "routine matters of administration."

The uncommunicative announcement followed the premier's conference with Supreme Allied headquarters over the question of food imports for war-torn Japan.

Earlier Shidehara had intimated that Allied authorities were preparing a program for the importation of food for Japanese hungry millions in the conquered home islands.

Must Get Food
A supreme command spokesman promptly contradicted Shidehara, declaring that no definite plans have yet been formulated for shipment of food to Japan from other countries.

Prior to yesterday's meeting with MacArthur, Shidehara said, "We must get food from somewhere abroad. For this purpose, we are endeavoring to seek an understanding from General MacArthur's headquarters."

Meanwhile, in compliance with an earlier directive, the Imperial government accepted all orders on the formation of Japanese labor organizations (Continued on Page Two)

Intra-Labor Split Likely To Continue

First Week Of Labor Management Conference Holds Some Hope Of Success

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
U. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The national labor-management conference rounded out its first week today against signs that the intra-labor split which dominated the opening days of the party will continue until the end.

So far, however, the disagreements in union ranks have not prevented the conference from getting down to work and making some progress toward its objective—diminishing post-war labor disputes.

Hope For Success
Delegates on both the labor and management side of the fence remained hopeful of a successful conference.

A F. L. President William Green, recognizing the division in the house of labor, agreed that "labor ought to present a united front," but he held out no real hope of its accomplishment.

He said: "We'll just have to do the best we can."

Reveal Nazis Have 10 Billion Francs Hidden Away In Small Principality

MONTE CARLO, Nov. 10.—(INS)—Investigators for the French Stock Exchange reported today that more than 10 billion francs in secret Nazi funds are being kept in hiding in the tiny principality of Monaco.

Lifting the curtain of what they call Europe's greatest financial post-war scandal, the investigators asserted that the highest dignitaries of Monaco were involved in the plot to keep the Nazis from seeing the capital cashed by Germany, Italian Fascists and French collaborators.

The investigators claimed that Prince Louis II himself was soliciting execution of an agreement with France to dissolve monaco banks in which enemy billions were stashed.

They allege that the prince is surrounded by would-be profiteers and traitors who want to win an effort to camouflage the threatened holdings.

British Indian Troops Battling In East Java

BATAVIA, Nov. 10.—(INS)—Allied military headquarters announced today that British Indian troops were battling inside the eastern Java island base city of Soerabaya against increasing resistance from Indonesian nationalist forces.

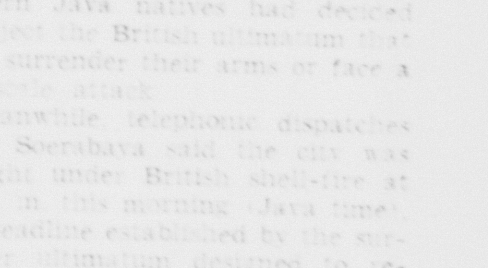

The announcement said that British Fifth Division troops, ranging through the city in the wake of heavy British shelling, this morning were engaged by sniping and light machine-gun fire.

A local spokesman in Indonesia, a spokesman in Batavia said that the casualties were resulting from the fighting.

Sukarno, Indonesian minister of the so-called Indonesian republic, said eastern Java natives had decided to fight the British ultimatum that they surrender their arms or face a full-scale attack.

Meanwhile, telegraphic dispatches from Soerabaya said the city was being under British shelling at intervals in this morning. Java times the deadline expiration by the week-end ultimatum designed to restore order in the area.

Hunt Man Who Seized Girl In Union Township

State Police Report Girl Is Violently Abducted On Street Friday Evening

State police report that a young woman of Union township was violently seized at 7:30 p. m. by a man who, they believe, answers the description of the person who not long ago brutally abused a young girl in Highland Heights. The seizure was made in McClelland avenue, Union township.

According to the state police, they were told that the attack was made while the young woman was walking on the sidewalk to a neighboring home, where she was to enter an auto and be taken to her employment place.

The man seized the young woman about the throat. She struggled, but was unable to break his hold. Her neck was bruised. The man seized her a second time, but his grasp on her blouse was also broken, state police report.

The young woman fled into the street and ran to the home where she was to meet her friends. She reported what had happened. A telephone call was sent immediately to the state police, who relayed the alarm to city police.

Autos loaded with state and city police were in the district, which was surrounded. However, the man, described as tall, could not be found. According to the state police, some points in the description of her assailant fit the description of the Nesheim township girl's attacker.

ations, and that he would not dare countermand the Imperial edicts. The prosecution contends that regardless of orders, Yamashita must have known about the widespread atrocities taking place under his command. They charge that he took no steps to prevent the outrages.

Major Bob Kerr, chief of the prosecution staff, said he expects to close the prosecution's case next week "provided the defense tactics do not prolong the case."

More Witnesses Less than half of the 123 specific counts against the Japanese general have been heard to date. Meanwhile, Col. Frank Meek of Caldwell, Ida., who heads the prosecution for the trial of Gen. Masaharu Homma, was busy lining up witnesses who survived the Bataan death march, which occurred while Homma was in command.

There was some mystery regarding the site of the trial, but best information indicates that he will be brought to Manila from Tokyo, where he is imprisoned.

The Yamashita trial went into its weekend recess after a day of appeals in which a court interpreter was dismissed for mistranslations.

The interpreter, translating from the Tagalog dialect, was found to be giving direct reversals of actual testimony.

His removal was demanded by both the defense and the prosecution on the grounds his translations were "false and scandalous."

Three Filipino newspapermen called the mistranslations to the attention of the defense counsel and they were sworn in before the court to testify to that effect.

said that organization will not withdraw from its position on the wage issue which has drawn the fire of the AFL and United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis.

It was learned that CIO President Philip Murray, if defeated on his present resolution to place the conference on record in support of President Truman's wage-price program, will bring in other proposals on the subject.

Oppose CIO Resolutions Both the AFL and Lewis have opposed the CIO resolution on grounds that it attempted to perpetuate government control of wages, prices and profits and bind labor to another "little steel formula."

Meanwhile, members of the AFL conference delegation denied that the federation group was split on the wage problem, although Daniel J. Tobin, teamsters president, said earlier that there had been no advance consultation before Green stated the AFL's position.

One AFL leader said Tobin was not present Friday when the AFL group caucused. Green emerged from the meeting to say that there "is no change in our attitude on wages."

Dr. George W. Taylor, secretary of the conference, said all six subcommittees have given full acceptance to the principle of collective bargaining.

He said one of the committees is exploring the possibility of establishing machinery by unions themselves for settling jurisdictional strikes while another group is considering the problem of no-strike, no-lockout clauses in contracts.

The latter, Taylor said, is directed at minimizing wildcat walkouts. The committee is studying the idea of an impartial chairman or umpire to decide disputes over interpretation of contracts. The group has not yet considered the question of penalties for violation of contracts.

ASIATIC AGITATORS FOMENT TROUBLE

agitation has been delivered to Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, U. S. commander in China.

General Thorpe declined to be "too specific" about his obviously secret investigation. He flatly refused comment on the possibility that U. S.-Soviet relations are affected by Jap-inspired propaganda.

Under Japanese schooling, Thorpe explained, Asiatics known to have personal animosity toward the Americans were developed into ultra-Nationalists.

Agitators Fostered These agitators were fostered in such territories as Java, Burma, Korea, Malaya, China, Manchuria, Indo-China and the Philippines.

Professional trouble makers were coached in the American built St. Paul's College building in Tokyo and were drawn from areas the Allies were expected to occupy as the war progressed against Japan.

This, Thorpe said, was done because Japanese Nationals obviously would not be able to continue anti-Allied propaganda designed to incite native uprisings in occupied countries.

This is Attlee's first visit to Washington since he became prime minister. He and the president came into personal contact first during the Potsdam conference.

In London, political circles said that in his talks with Mr. Truman the British statesman would stress the view that atomic energy development eventually must be entrusted to an international authority.

Attlee who announced that he was coming to Washington to discuss world affairs in the "terrible light" of atomic discoveries said as he took off from the London airport.

"I am hopeful that the talks will have successful results."

Also to be discussed by the president and the two prime ministers are other problems including the development in Palestine, American and British relations with Russia and the British loan question.

WASHINGTON CALLING

by MARQUIS CHILDS

Service Unification Problem Delays Action

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—In this period of drift, when our military strength is being so rapidly dissipated, the team of military commanders who won the war is still in control.

They are not there because they want to be there. It is, in fact, acute embarrassment at making decisions for the long future.

Other admirals and other generals will have the responsibility for that long future, and the men now in office should not commit them to a course which may be irrevocable. That is the feeling, particularly, within the Army.

Seek To Retire
General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, and General Brehon Somervell, chief of supply, are both anxious to retire. They want to turn over the controls to younger men who can begin to make long-term plans.

To put it in over-simple terms, it is as though the senior members of a winning football team were to stay on after the last and victorious game of the season, trying to plan for a campaign in which they would not even have a part. It is an awkward and embarrassing situation contributing to the demoralization resulting from our breakneck demobilization.

One of the chief reasons for this difficult situation is the political log jam over unification of the services. The controversy is creating unprecedented bitterness and divisiveness between the services.

Surprise Statement
General Marshall and General H. H. Arnold, chief of air, were astonished to read a statement by Assistant Secretary of Navy H. Strive Hensel that the joint chiefs of staff had unanimously recommended a delay in unification of the armed forces. At their request, Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson gave out a statement saying that Hensel was mistaken.

In the meantime, the powerful Navy lobby is moving full steam ahead. One member of Congress reported recently that he had received more than a thousand letters opposing unification, while he had received only 40 letters in favor.

"I'm in favor of unification," he said. "And I know that those letters in opposition were mostly inspired. But it makes it hard for me, nevertheless, when the balance is so strong the other way."

Period of Drift
If merely the rank and prestige of a few admirals and a few generals were involved, this would not matter very much. It would be just another bureaucratic tangle. But our national security and our capacity to pay for reasonable security in line with our responsibilities in the world are at stake. No less than that. The present period of drift and controversy makes an orderly transition all but impossible.

In this column it was reported, on other day, that not a single combat unit of the Army Air Force could fly a tactical mission today because the units had been so stopped by the point system of men with skill and experience. The long future of the air forces is also being jeopardized.

The AAF asked to be allowed to keep out of wartime appropriations, $245,000,000 for research and experimentation. This was cut to $115,000,000. The Navy Bureau of Aeronautics asked for $148,000,000 for the same purpose and got $61,000,000.

Production Cut
Aircraft production was cut back from 96,379 units in 1944 to 22,000 in 1945. In other words, only 2 per cent of our productive power will be left. The air coordinating committee, consisting of assistant secretaries of state, commerce, navy, war and the chairman of the civil aeronautics board, issued a warning against this drastic cutback.

By contrast, Britain has just made available millions of pounds for a great aeronautical research center near Bedford. And a British jet plane set an official world air speed record of 606 miles an hour.

On Capitol Hill they are squabbling over Pearl Harbor, trying to find a scapegoat to make political medicine. What a spectacle of futility at the very time they are preparing the way for another and more terrible Pearl Harbor!

What People Say

WASHINGTON (Secretary of War Robert Patterson). "Only the universal military training can we make both our determination and our ability to enforce peace so clear that war will never again shake the world."

PHILADELPHIA—John Foster Dulles, U. S. advisor on foreign affairs: "We must make pulling together, rather than pushing apart, the permanent way of the future."

SAN FRANCISCO—Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of the U. S. far east air force: "The war of the future will be won to a large extent in the research laboratories of today."

NEW YORK—Capt. Harold E. Stassen, USNR, American delegate to the United Nations conference: "The only real hope for future peace, stability and progress is to place the atomic bomb on a world level."

Hints On Etiquette
Don't be sarcastic. It's the lowest form of bad manners—except in very exceptional circumstances.

New Parisian hats feature as many as a dozen simulated birds. This is symbolic of what the Age of Flight?

SERIOUS IN MINORITY
The reporter was visiting the schools to get impressions on the educational system.

"How many students do you have in your classes?" he asked one professor.

"Conservatively, I'd say about one out of 10," responded the educator.

Great Game Of Politics

Employers' Right Are Not Conceded

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—IF THIS labor-industry conflict in the country becomes a little more unbalanced; if the labor politicians gain a few more governmental advantages, and the labor bosses proceed to further extremes, perhaps the whole business may become so clearly one-sided that it will measurably correct itself.

It is always possible the stage will be reached where the great nonunion majority of the American people will see through the bunk and bluster of the professional labor leaders and realize what the game they have rigged with the party politicians is costing them.

ONE might think for example, that the case of the labor unions against the Hughes Industries, Inc., could be the last of its kind. It is a last of its kind, however, only in the sense that the domination, which through their alliance with the Roosevelt Administration can influence which Mr. Truman's political agents seem anxious to continue for him, the labor leaders achieved in 1936 and have increased since.

"The Right to Strike" is a basic principle of the union creed. It is recognized by law and constantly proclaimed by every labor spokesman, journalist and political in the country. No one denies this right.

No one contends that a workman can be forced to work when he does not want to work. The right of a workman to quit is indisputable. About that we have heard a great deal in the last few years.

WHAT we have not heard anything about, however, is the equally measurable right of the employer to quit. If the workman has a right to quit, why, then, the employer has not as much right to quit his job.

If you concede the right to the one, you must concede it to the other. The unions have been exercising their right to strike, and without just cause, for a long period of years. No until last week has there been an outstanding example of an employer exercising his right to quit work.

There is New Orleans, last week, Mr. Andrew Jackson Higgins, head of the great boat-building plant there, did exactly that.

Tired of being bothered by work stoppages, strikes, contract breaking and other forms of union behavior, Mr. Higgins suddenly announced that he was through. Concerning that he has just quit work, he has just quit work, he has just quit work.

Mr. Higgins' sudden announcement that he was through, concerning that he has just quit work, he has just quit work, he has just quit work.

Lewis Takes Leaf Out Of Nick Carter Books
Avoided Pitfalls By Wriggling His Way Out
Women Plan Schools For Educating Domestics

By HELEN ESSARY
(Copyright, 1945)
By The Baltimore Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—I sat beside John L. Lewis at dinner. Mr. Lewis, I said, ingratiatingly, "I should very much like to have a pleasant conversation with you. What would you like to talk about?"

"Do you know what most people talk to me about?" asked the president of the United Mine Workers, wrinkling his shaggy black brows. "I'll tell you what they talk about. They talk about coal. And then they talk about coal some more."

Let's talk about something else for a change. How about telling me how you have managed to escape the pitfalls that have—shall we say—lured your path?"

"Pitfalls?" laughed Lewis in very deep bass. "Have there been any pitfalls? I haven't noticed any pitfalls. Perhaps this explains how I've missed falling in I just haven't known the pitfalls were there."

I'm afraid Mr. Lewis, "I pursued the subject. I'm afraid you aren't being quite honest. Let's put the question another way. When you found you had got into a pitfall, then what did you do? How did you save yourself?"

Replied the labor leader in an ostentatiously solemn tone.

That Domestic Help Problem
Ever read Nick Carter? He was the Hairbreadth Harry—Sherlock Holmes of his generation.

When he found himself at the bottom of a bottomless black pit with lions roaring at him above, darkness all around him and dragons burrowing up from below, Nick quickly whipped a small sharp knife from a secret coat pocket, slapped on his false whiskers and within the twinkling of an eyelash dug himself upward and upward to safety. That's my system. It's been known to work.

In a recent column I discussed the campaign of the American Women's Voluntary Services, Inc., to do something about the domestic help problem. An important part of this program is to do something about the status of the domestic worker. I would like to comment further on the AWVS campaign, if I may.

The plan of the AWVS is, as I said before, not a fly by night thing. Every one of the 200,000 members is interested. Quite a number of women. And to these the membership of the General Federation of Women's Clubs about 2,500,000 more women supporting the AWVS plan, and now have an army.

An army of women really about to get down to serious work. For if there ever was a crying territory, it is the domestic problem.

Correctly, the AWVS means to do something about domestic employees. It means to do something to make the domestic worker a more dignified and more respected position in the community.

At the moment, labor unions do not see the picture. Glad to fight for the right to work, they are not interested in the wages or treatment of workers. The organization does not mean to do either. These two things are in different areas and such a distinction is necessary.

Some Good Advice
Tired, harried and not in good luck of the AWVS. Backed by forces water pumps and leather boots. What other obstacles? But don't you get discouraged. If you can't beat 'em, join 'em. The service you will be doing a superb service to humanity.

I was brooding out and on a big important Swiss. Isn't this country in a horrible state? Unemployment. Discouraged. Strikes. Everybody mad.

Whatever are you complaining about?" said the Swiss gentleman. "Why all Americans never learn. I appreciate their own great qualities. Think how much you have spread yourselves out in this way. How much you have made your own lives more comfortable, more productive and everything else."

How can you not expect the pendulum to swing? Of course, you are feeling a reaction now. In any other country the reaction would take the form of a real revolution. By good, you Americans. No apologies."

Improve Relations
When I talk or write to teachers, I try to show them how they might improve their relationships with parents. How we shall say how we parents might know the teachers and school.

The average school child whose parent will read this column has an excellent teacher or several of them. Let me ask this parent a few questions. What have you done to show this teacher you appreciate his or her work? What have you done to show this teacher you appreciate his or her work?

Armistice Day

Twenty-seven years ago a great silence fell upon the battle fronts. The war was over. The world was safe for democracy. The war to end wars was a triumphal success.

Twice during the long struggle Germany had threatened the channel ports, the occupation of France and the invasion of the British Isles. But stout armies, paying a tremendous price in casualties to stay German mass attacks, had held. At sea, the patrols had kept the lanes open to America, and America had arrived to lay the junker monster low.

It was a day of jubilation. On the front, soldiers ventured out to make sure that firing had ceased, then built fires in the open and saw the beaten enemy make the same gesture of freedom and relief. The battle lull softened in the eyes of tired men, and their thoughts turned to Christmas at home.

On the home sector, the people abandoned their work and thronged into the streets to march and cheer and dance and keep in an ecstasy of joy. And they, too, began to make plans for reunions with absent sons, perhaps at Thanksgiving, certainly at Christmas. A weary world rejoiced to be at peace and resolved to perpetuate the peace at any cost. That was the mood of the end of World War I.

Usually the occasion is celebrated both in memorializing the great campaign who gave their lives in that war, and repeating the celebration of its victorious outcome. But save among veterans, there is little formal celebration. The victory of 1918 should be appropriately celebrated, but this is a good time to think about the United States and all the peoples of the world who hold liberty above life.

Trial At Manila

The record now being written in the case of Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, the Japanese commander in the Philippines when American troops conquered those islands, is more than enough to make the blood run cold. It is soul-shocking to read even the driest of the testimony and to be forced to believe that things called human committed such crime.

But there is no escape from the conclusion that these things happened. There are too many witnesses to the savagery and bestiality of the Japanese soldiery, and these witnesses tell their stories of horror all so convincingly, to leave the slightest doubt in the most reluctant mind. It is clear that there was nothing in the calendar of cruelty or depravity that the Japanese overlooked. Murder, torture, rape, they engaged at none of these in the madness that came upon them with defeat.

The question the officers of the American military commission must decide is whether General Yamashita was responsible for these savagery. It is understood that there is no documentary evidence to show that he was and that the prosecution is relying on the sheer weight of the testimony from hundreds of witnesses to convince the court that the ultimate guilt is his.

This is a departure from past practices. If Yamashita is convicted a new principle will have been laid down. It may prove to be a dangerous principle. Yet surely there is hardly a reasonable doubt that he either ordered or permitted his subordinates to take their revenge on the thousands of victims who suffered at Japanese hands.

Nazi Assets Abroad

There is no evidence as yet that any of the Nazi big-wigs have managed to flee to the neutral countries where they secreted part of their ill-gotten gains. But it is as important as ever to make sure that these funds will not be available in the future to finance a revival of Nazism in Europe or in other lands.

For that reason it is good to see that the Allies have formed a four-power German External Property commission to take possession of German assets abroad which are estimated to be worth as much as a billion dollars.

It is a tedious and difficult job which has been entrusted to the commission. Most of the assets which it is after lie in countries like Spain, Sweden, Switzerland and Argentina which were either neutral or aggressively sympathetic to the Nazis. The commission has no weapon but persuasion in trying to get at the funds.

Allied leaders have taken special pains to make the document creating the commission and setting forth its authority a legally watertight document. The Allied Control Council is, at present, the sole government of Germany. As such it may legally claim the right to dispose of all German assets and property as it sees fit.

This should be sufficient to satisfy the neutrals but it is more than doubtful whether it will have any effect on the attitude of Spain and Argentina.

What use will be made of these assets is a question still to be decided. But that can wait. The first task is to insure that the assets will not fall into hands sympathetic to the Nazis.

Efficiency First

The administration has now placed before Congress its program for a general increase in the pay of government employees. With the President's approval, the Civil Service Commission has presented a schedule calling for substantially higher salaries for top office-holders in all departments and for a 20 per cent increase in the pay of 860,000 workers in the lower pay levels.

In placing these recommendations before the Senate Civil Service committee, Commissioner Arthur S. Fleming contended that they are "conservative" that they are necessary to equal the scale in private employment, and that the government must "stand out as one of the most progressive employers in the nation and thus attract to its service and hold in its service persons of outstanding qualifications."

These somewhat conflicting ends, in Mr. Fleming's view, justify the addition of $414,000,000 a year to the cost of running the government. This proposal, coming at this time, poses certain questions, its timing seems to imply that the administration meant it to have some effect on the settlement of the vexing wage-price issue.

It is Senator Byrd's opinion that before the government puts the suggested new scale into effect it should eliminate personnel not now needed because the end of the war has lightened the load. The point is well taken. Certainly Congress should make certain that a good start has been made toward efficiency and economy before it votes a permanent increase in the cost of operating the government.

The citizen who came through shoe rationing with an unused stamp at least can credit himself with a moral victory.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 5:03. Sun rises tomorrow 6:26.

There are people who never give anything to a worthy cause or buy War Bonds. And these are often people who have done well in this country.

Victory Bonds is the right name for them. It will take a lot of money to bring our soldiers back and to take care of the wounded in the hospitals.

QUICK CURE
"So," remarked the judge severely, "you tried to drive by the officer after he blew his whistle?"

"But Your Honor," protested the motorist, "I'm deaf."

"That may be," admitted the judge, "but you'll get your hearing in the morning."

Doing a little more than you get paid for puts you right in line for a better job.

Health is more important than pleasure, but you don't realize it until you lose your health.

COULD BE
Two children, a boy and girl, brother and sister—had lost by natural death, their pet rabbit. And as is the way of children, when their first shock of grief had subsided they planned an elaborate funeral for their departed friend.

The boy was the grave digger and the girl wrapped the poor, brilliant corpse up in a silk scarf ready for interment. Part of the mournful ceremony was the solemn recommitment of the body to "Aches to aches and bust to bust."

When the grave had been patted down and a suitable marking made, the little girl remarked: "I suppose Polly's in heaven now."

"I suppose so," answered the boy doubtfully, "but I don't know."

"He's got wings," suggested the girl, "but he wouldn't be an angel would he?"

"Only folks is angels," answered the boy sagaciously.

"Well, then, what is he?" persisted the girl.

"I suppose," said the boy knowingly, "that he's a Bird of Paradise now."

If a man makes a better motorist, he is besieged by scores of flatterers smart guys who can use him to make an easy dollar.

Let's try to correct a libel and get our history straight. Early Americans burned "witches" but they never really burned 'em.

If he seems to have a growth at everybody, he either feels superior to them or he is mad because he thinks them superior.

Feeding 200 week-end guests "company" meals costs at least 25 bucks. Be your own boss and that much to your hosts.

In Gratitude

Painted by Harold Anderson. Courtesy of American Oil Company

THE cheers die away and ticker-tape is gone from the streets. But the grateful heart knows that the time to say thanks is just beginning. It knows Victory wasn't given to us. It was paid for with the hearts, the hopes and the lives of our boys.

These we can never pay back. But we can put a down-payment on the future they anguished for. We can invest in the tomorrows of those who come home. We can pay for the care of the hundreds of thousands now fighting their grimmest battles in service hospitals. We can give our government the means of taking care of those who took care of our freedom.

If we don't show our gratitude now by making the Victory Loan the greatest bond drive success, we may be doing ourselves, as well as our veterans, a harm as grievous as defeat. If we run hog-wild with our money now, and unloose inflation on the land, the word "Victory" will mock us to the end of our days.

Americans know this. We'll need no whooping or parades to lure us to bond windows. We won't need movie-star kisses or pleas from empty-sleeved heroes. But, in gratitude and with humble thanks to those who brought us peace, we'll use our money to buy a bright future for our boys and for ourselves.

Gigantic Claims For Reparations

Claims Totalling More Than Entire World's Wealth Filed By Nations

COMMISSION TO CONSIDER CLAIMS

By TOWELL BENNETT
U. S. Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Nov. 10.—Astronomical claims totalling more than the entire world's wealth were submitted today by seventeen nations to the Allied Reparations Commission which has convened in Paris to agree upon a distribution of Germany's vast domain of the United Nations.

Each of the seventeen countries which suffered from Nazi occupation or attack has submitted a full, detailed claim for reparations. Together they total more real wealth than exists in the world, one of the commission members declared today.

Scale Down Claims

The major task of the Reparations Commission will be to examine and to scale down demands of individual nations and to agree upon an equitable distribution of war booty amongst the victorious Allies.

Each country naturally is submitting claims far greater than they hope to receive. The sessions, according to one member, will be much in the nature of a barabaring convention.

"This is where the victors get together to divide up what's left of the defeated enemy," is the straightforward description of the conference by another member.

One nation is understood to have assigned a monetary value to each of its civilian casualties from Nazi air bombardment, which it demands the Germans must now pay.

Huge Demands

Another country wants the Germans to pay for every Allied bomb which fell on its soil, claiming that Nazi occupation necessitated the bombs.

A third has demanded that its total expenditure on armaments since 1933 be charged to the Germans who threatened and finally captured world peace.

The claim of almost every country individually exceeds the total German "pot" of available booty. The scaling-down task of the commission will thus be one of lengthy, tedious paper work.

Headaches are anticipated, and not one of the members is willing to guess at how long the commission will remain in closed conference.

Seventeen countries are represented, including the United States, Great Britain, France, Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, Czechoslovakia, Greece, Yugoslavia, Egypt, India, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Canada. Notably absent are those of South and Latin American countries which were aligned with the United Nations during the war and which today hold the bulk of German foreign assets.

'Emperor's New Clothes,' Second Play For Children

Children of New Castle and vicinity are looking forward to viewing the Pittsburgh Children's Theatre's second production of the season, to be presented here on November 16. It will be a new adaptation by Beatrice Lewis, of Pittsburgh, of Hans Christian Andersen's delightful folk tale, "The Emperor's New Clothes."

Under the sponsorship of the Federation Junior club, "The Emperor's New Clothes" will be given Friday evening, November 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the senior high school auditorium.

It is the second in a series of four dramatic entertainments for children which will be presented in New Castle during the season. A story of the play centers around a vain, foolish emperor so fond of new clothes that he neglected his empire, and whose sole pleasure was in arraying himself in one new garment after another, takes place in that remote corner of the earth known as the Northern Empire of ancient China.

Chicago Shopping For Big Airport

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(INS)—Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago was to return home today after "shopping" in Washington for the federally owned Douglas airport in northwest Chicago for his city.

Upon his arrival in the capital last night, Kelly said he planned to confer with Gen. H. H. Arnold, Army Air Forces commander, and possibly Secretary of War Patterson on the proposed purchase of the 40 million dollar airport.

Kelly said he also wanted to boost his city as a site for the permanent home of the United Nations Organization.

Woman Jilted After Nine-Year Illicit Romance Stages Fatal Shooting

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 10.—(INS)—Bertha Alice Demers, 28-year-old bespectacled stenographer, was examined by psychologists today as police charged her with a jealous slaying of her married lover.

Held without bail, Miss Demers was said by police to have confessed shooting Walter J. Robichaud, Westchester county painting contractor, after he abruptly ended their nine-year illicit romance.

Police said Miss Demers confessed that she entered into a relationship with the married contractor shortly after she came to the United States from Canada in 1937. Robichaud also was originally from Canada.

Miss Demers said she met Robichaud almost immediately after she arrived. According to the girl, Robichaud told her that his wife was ill of a heart ailment. On last Wednesday, police said, Robichaud told her their romance was over.

This Visitor Can Enter Any Hospital Room

There are times when the physician must bar visitors from the hospital room, and wisely too. You want to see your friend, you want to cheer him up, but you can't get in.

Not in person of course, but your flowers are always welcome visitors in a sick room. A little bouquet of blooms goes a long way to aid the progress on the road to recovery. There are no visiting hours for flowers. And they do carry your message.

Bond Purchases Must Increase

Sales Up To Present Total Only About Twenty Percent Of Quota Set

Bond totals in the Victory Loan campaign released today by Clarence M. England, co-chairman of the campaign, show that Lawrence County has purchased $486,145 worth of bonds in the individual $100 plan, including "E" bonds. This is 23.6 percent of the quota of $2,060,000. The total corporate and individual sales show a total of $777,719 or 29.4 percent.

This amount is not good enough for the time of the campaign. It is felt Lawrence County has a job to do that requires an everyday increase in bond sales. If the quota is to be met as all the other seven counties have been met.

It takes bonds to bring men back from overseas, to feed them, and clothe them, to hospitalize the sick and wounded, to pay severance pay to discharged men and women.

All of these things take money and the easy way to get the money is through bonds. The money is here today and the bank deposits show that the Victory Loan is worth more than they did before the first bond campaign and the country total of bonds is in the neighborhood of eight millions of dollars worth in all seven campaigns.

The top has to be done. Let's get it done quickly.

Food Commissary To Aid Americans Living In Paris

PARIS, Nov. 10.—(INS)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today approved establishment of a food commissary for Paris to go into operation in behalf of American civilians after December 1, when wartime facilities accorded to news correspondents and others will terminate.

The United States army will provide up to $35 worth of food monthly for each of the 400 American civilians now in Paris, this figure to include staples such as meat, butter and eggs.

Two civilian messes were established and these will operate until March 1. A total of 125 American news correspondents will be among those to benefit by the arrangement, decided upon because of the fantastic prices prevailing in the Paris black market and the general shortage of food in France.

A Message to Returning Servicemen

Many returning Servicemen are discontinuing their government insurance for various reasons. Insurance in private companies costs on an average of $5.00 to $6.00 MORE PER THOUSAND YEARLY than does government insurance. I urge every veteran to continue all or as much of his government insurance as he can.

If I can assist any Serviceman in setting up an arrangement to continue or convert his government insurance, I will be glad to do so.

Yesterday the repair truck broke down.

It reported serious differential trouble ten miles this side of Washington, Pa., while en route with the Hitler car to Martins Ferry, O.

Later yesterday Third Service Command officers rushed two more repair trucks from Pittsburgh's Logan Armory to go out and repair the repair truck.

SHALL WE SHARE THE SECRET OF THE ATOMIC BOMB YET?

Frankly we have no opinion on that. It is a question for the statesmen to answer. But we do know that the secret of modern motor transportation is shared in America.

Every truck line, every truck operator knows the secret and it isn't a secret to be kept. It's team work, plus the finest equipment, plus the know-how of American lads and the organizations back of them.

The secret of American motor truck transportation isn't a secret at all. You know it, it is summed up in one word, Efficiency. For your motor truck operator today knows he cannot survive unless he renders speedy efficient service, free from transfer delays and tedious waits.

Motor trucks get your cargo over the road quickly and safely.

Halsey Pleads For United Nations To Strive For Unity

Admiral Speaks At Philadelphia And Stresses Unity As First Step Toward Peace

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—(INS)—Unity among the United Nations and the American people was called for today by Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., as the first and most important step in maintaining peace.

"We need teamwork more than ever now," Halsey said at a dinner in Philadelphia in his honor. "Many Americans seem to have forgotten the common sacrifices of this war," he added. "Some are fighting each other—others that what the young men died for."

He urged the continuance of a strong army and navy.

"Don't listen to those idealists who say scrap everything," he cautioned.

"To do that would be to sentence our sons and grandsons to death, because we would not be able to take care of them if war should come. This is a realistic world, let us be realistic ourselves."

More than a million persons greeted the third fleet commander yesterday as he toured Philadelphia.

French Emissary Arrives To Explain Program For Ruhr

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(INS)—A special emissary for the French foreign office arrived in Washington today to explain to State Department officials Gen. Charles De Gaulle's plan for internationalization of the Ruhr.

The envoy is Couve De Murville, who holds the rank of ambassador.

De Murville left London for the United States after presenting France's proposal to British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin.

No time has been set for the ambassador to call on State Department officials, but the latter were expecting him and planned a conference in the near future.

De Gaulle's plan calls for establishment of an international commission to supervise production in the Ruhr in such a manner that benefits would be felt first by western European countries who suffered most during the recent conflict.

STOCK MARKET TREND HIGHER

Utilities Continue To Control Trend

In Stock Market During Morning

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(INS)—The utilities continued in control of the stock market today, dominating the tape at advancing prices while the rest of the list took a back seat.

Volume was good, around 300,000 shares, thanks to the long strings of low-priced power shares.

Commonwealth & Southern led a new high of 3 1/2, an advance of 1/2 point while United Corp. and Laclede Gas were turned over heavily for only slight gains. Electric Power & Light was a half point better.

In the industrial list General Motors was off on lower earnings. U. S. Steel lost 1/2, and Schenley I. Rails were slightly easier.

Bonds were mixed and so were curb prices.

Navy Releases Three Of Seized Oil Refineries

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(INS)—The navy released at 12:01 a.m. EST today three petroleum refineries seized under presidential order, with 50 other refineries on October 5 as a result of labor disputes.

The three refineries were the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio Refinery of Lima, Ohio, the Canton Refining Division of the Central Pipeline Co., Canton, Ohio, and the Sun Oil Co. of Toledo, Ohio.

All three companies petitioned the navy to release these plants, on the basis that there was no labor dispute existing at the present time.

Upon investigation, the navy stated that the companies' statements were correct and that there was no prospect of any immediate dispute that would result from return of the plants to their owners.

First Sgt. Wilmer L. Glenn, 34, of New York, was released from the army at Indiantown Gap.

Inducted into the service on March 19, 1941, and serving at various camps in the states, Sgt. Glenn, embarked for overseas duty in September 1943, serving with the 63rd Engineer Battalion, (Top) in several provinces in India.

The Topographical Battalion surveyed construction work on the B-29 airfield in Bengal, mapping sections of Burma and China, receiving the Meritorious Service Award for the completion of exceptionally difficult tasks.

Sgt. Glenn returned to the States by plane, in June, 1945, and was admitted to the Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, D. C., for observation and treatment.

Sgt. Glenn's wife resides at the Wallace Tourist Home, York road.

KEARNY, N. J., Nov. 10.—(INS)—U. S. Steel's federal shipyards at Kearny and nearby Port Newark were tied up for a second day today by a strike of 15,000 employees over the firing of a ship steward.

Ten thousand members of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America and 5,000 at Kearny walked out yesterday in the climax of what union officials said was a series of foremen discharges for purported violation of company rules.

Man Is Executed In Gas Chamber

Pays Penalty For Deaths Of Wife And Daughter, In Colorado Prison

CANON CITY, Colo., Nov. 10.—(INS)—The second prisoner slated for execution this month at Colorado state penitentiary today read the Bible which gave Charles Ford Silliman courage to enter the gas chamber and pay with his life for the "poison cocktail" murders of his wife and daughter.

"I do not fear. I'm going to a better place," 35-year-old Silliman muttered over and over as he sat strapped in the chair inhaling the lethal fumes.

Silliman entered the chamber last night at 9:43 p. m. MST. The cyanide pellets were dropped into the pan of sulphuric acid beneath his chair at 9:51. One minute later the killer appeared unconscious. He was pronounced dead at 10 p. m. MST.

Most of yesterday, the killer read the Bible in his cell. As he began his one-quarter-mile uphill climb to the death chamber, Silliman handed the book to another man in death row, Frank Maritz. Maritz is scheduled to die in two weeks for the slaying of a 3-year-old child.

The new gymnasium will not only serve the school in the physical training of young men but it will be a memorial to one of the George Junior boys who lost his life in the jungles of New Guinea, Donald R. Lobaugh, son of Mrs. Ida Lobaugh of 609 Walnut street, Freeport, Pa.

Donald R. Lobaugh is an alumnus of George Junior Republic. Entering service he was assigned to the 127th infantry of the 32nd "Red Arrow" division. In the drive against the Japs he performed heroic service despite many wounds, from which he died. He was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor posthumously.

The proposed Lobaugh gymnasium is a part of a campaign for $100,000 in funds to provide the Republic with needed buildings. E. Arthur Sweeney, former secretary of welfare, is the general chairman of the campaign for funds. The Republic is located near Grove City and has in it 225 boys from 10 to 18 years of age. There are no funds available for new buildings save what is contributed by the public.

Labor Contracts Must Be Binding

Sen. Vandenberg Asserts Conference
Must Find Way To Make Contracts Dependable

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(INS)—Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) in a Senate speech Friday called on the Labor-Management conference to find a way to safeguard the dependability of labor contracts.

He declared that contract violations are impairing the integrity of free collective bargaining and said that "true friends of collective bargaining must stop the trend."

Vandenberg said it was encouraging that labor leaders agreed to place contract validity on the labor conference agenda. He said:

Two Points Stressed
"There is nothing more important than that they agree on two points—(1) Adherence by both parties to a policy of living up to contracts for their duration; and (2) action by unions to control members' conduct and prevent violation of agreements."

The Michigan senator cited the Washington transit strike as an example, declaring that it violated two clauses of the contract which provided for just interruption of service, and for arbitration.

"It ceased to be a contract, except at the option of the union," he became a one-way scrap of paper, Vandenberg told the Senate.

He said reliable contracts "are the core of our greatest current problem—reconversion."

Employers cannot safely expand their operations "until they can depend upon the validity of contracts," the senator maintained.

HOLD HUSBAND FOR WIFE'S DEATH

PERRYVILLE, Del., Nov. 10.—(INS)—George Bines, 25, of French Town, near Perryville, today was ordered held without bail in connection with the slaying of his wife, Mabel, 24, Thursday night.

Sheriff Ralph W. Robinson said that Bines told him they had become engaged in a domestic quarrel, and that Mrs. Bines started to walk out the front door. Robinson declared that Bines admitted picking up a rifle and firing a single shot into his wife's back, killing her instantly.

The couple has three children, ranging in ages from three months to three and one-half years.

BALLOT MIXUPS

Some confusion has been caused in the election returns because of omissions on the ballots of four precincts last Tuesday. In each case the name of candidates was omitted and write-in candidates were placed for which regularly nominated candidates had filed, with one exception.

In the second ward of Ellwood City, Nick Lanzani had the Democratic nomination and John Minocci the Republican nomination for council. The ward has two precincts, one in Lawrence county and one in Beaver county in which the residents vote for hero and school officers.

Somehow the names of the candidates were omitted from the Beaver county precinct ballots and Mr. Minocci's friends used stickers in the Lawrence county precinct. Mr. Lanzani had a comfortable lead, but Minocci's lead in the Beaver county precinct put him out in front.

On Monday counsel for Mr. Lanzani will file a petition asking that the election be invalidated.

In the first of Mahoning the second of Union and the second of the eighth ward in New Castle.

MEAT AND PROTEIN
Meat, eggs and milk are our best sources of protein. The main use of protein is for material for body building. It has other uses too. Children need plenty of protein for growth. Adults need it for repair and other reasons. Meat provides protein in its most usable form. The protein of plants must be combined with each other or with animal proteins to be beneficial. Even a small amount of meat added to vegetable or cereal foods adds a great deal to its value as a body builder. Perhaps great-grandmother did not know much about protein and carbohydrates and calories but she made use of some pretty good combinations. She made spaghetti with meat balls, chili con carne, mince pie, spaghetti and buckwheat cakes with sausage. The combination worked out pretty well sometimes. Scientists have learned some things about proteins. We should avail ourselves of the help they can give us.

TAKE CARE OF PANS FOR NEW ONES ARE SCARCE

With new kettles and pans on the scarce list it behooves every homemaker to give just a little more attention to the ones already in her kitchen. This is the reminder that comes from extension representatives.

Be especially careful not to allow foods to burn in the utensils. Scorching and burning not only wastes food, but often injures the pan. Cleaning a kettle in which food has burned takes extra time and one is likely to lose patience. However, should food burn use the following procedure for cleaning: let the pan cool gradually. Pouring cold water into a metal pan may cause it to buckle or bulge; with an enamel pan the enamel may crack and chip off. Soaking and scrubbing are the safest ways to clean off burned food.

After the pan has cooled, pour out the water and bring it to a boil. Baking soda in the water helps soften the burned material. With a wooden spoon scrape out the loosened food and add more water. Never use a sharp pointed tool for scraping. It may be necessary to repeat this process several times. The black carbon which persists in clinging to the pan may be removed with fine steel wool or fine scouring powder. Never use harsh abrasives because they scratch and mar the finish. Wash pan in soap and water and dry well.

Rust is the big problem with all iron utensils. Dry them thoroughly and keep them in a dry place. Don't leave salt in or around iron utensils since it absorbs moisture and will cause iron to rust. If iron pans are to be stored for several months, rub them with fat that contains no salt, such as fresh lard.
